Piano (for Beginners, Intermediate, & Advanced)
Music Theory, Sight-Reading,
Advanced Performance
& Repertoire

From the age of 4 years old to now, Nick has continuously been a piano student. After 15 years, he has mastered the instrument with precision and virtuosity. He is currently pursuing his Music Performance degree from Hillsborough Community College.

For the past 3 years, Nick has remained under the instruction of Grammy® Award-Winning pianist, Latin Grammy® Award-Winning producer, and owner of the Hands In Motion School of Music, Lannie Battistini. During this time, Nick has been mentored by Lannie on how to develop his personal teaching style to provide a solid music foundation to his piano students from beginners to advanced levels.

Nick's charisma and passion for music is translated into his lessons to where students find learning the building blocks to be a great musician is fun and enjoyable – like it should be! Students want to put in the work and the practice at home because of Nick's approaches to keep their enthusiasm, such as having his students learn a varied repertoire including their favorite tunes. With a natural ability to perform publicly from a young age, Nick brings that added edge into the classroom to provide a complete curriculum of excellence to his students.

Some of his professional performance resume includes performing with the Ruth Eckerd Hall Jazz Band and two-time Grammy® Award-Winner, Marcus Miller, at the Clearwater Jazz Fest. He has also performed for many years for numerous city mayors' during their fundraiser events.

Although Nick teaches adults of all ages, he also enjoys working with children and seeing how they apply music to enhance their life. He often volunteers at his local church with children and annually at a summer camp program for foster care children.

On his time off from teaching or pursuing his music degree, he is actively performing around Tampa Bay with the Jazz Band "In the Pocket" at local restaurants, private events, venues, and festivals like the Gasparilla Music Festival.
